2. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Macton Irrigation Cess Act, 1933, it shall be lawful for the Local Government to levy every full water-cess on all lands the irrigation of which from the Reservoir is allowed by or under the orders of the Local Government, whether such lands are actually irrigated with water from the Reservoir or not, and the Local Government may by rule prescribe the conditions under which and the rates at which such water-cess shall be levied.

3. (1) Permits shall be issued for the irrigation of lands of the description mentioned in section 2 by such authority as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf.

(2) Every permit issued under sub-section (1) shall be in such form as the Local Government may by rule prescribe and shall specify the conditions under which the lands in respect of which it is issued may be irrigated and in particular the period in every week during which such lands may be irrigated and the source through which water may be taken for such irrigation.

(3) Permits issued under this Act shall remain in force until they are cancelled or modified by such authority and in such manner as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf. When a permit is so cancelled the liability to pay water-cess under the Act in respect of the land for which the permit was issued shall cease.

(4) Nothing in this Act shall operate as a bar to the levy of water-cess under the Macton Irrigation Cess Act, 1933, for any water taken or used otherwise than under and in accordance with the terms of a permit in force issued under this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Government have sanctioned the preparation of detailed plans and estimates for the Riverai Reservoir, Combahee District. This scheme is considered extremely suitable for the cultivation of irrigated dry crops on an extent of about 900,000 acres and the project is likely to cost about two crores of rupees. Under the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1925 (Madras Act VII of 1925), Government may levy water-cess only when water from a Government source or work is supplied or used for purposes of irrigation. In the event of an appreciable number of the landholders of the tract to be served by the project failing to use the water supplied from the Reservoir in any year or years, there being no legal obligation on their part to use the water and pay the water-cess, the actual revenue realized from the work would fall short of the expected return and the interest on the large capital sunk in the project for the benefit of this particular tract would be a burden on the general tax-payer. Such a contingency has to be guarded against. Although the ryots of the tract to be benefited by the project have agreed to safeguard the interests of the general tax-payer, the construction of the work cannot be undertaken unless the payment of water-cess every year is guaranteed on all lands the irrigation of which from the Reservoir is permitted whether such lands are actually irrigated with water from the Reservoir or not. The Bill is intended to provide this guarantee.
